LITTLE BIT

on most anything

When there's no TV tube to dehumanize it, the humor of Bill Cosby is as relentless as a "big brother rib tickler." It starts out jabbing for a few giggles, and before you realize, it becomes so persistent that you're haw-hawing in near pain.

Cosby had 1500 persons haw-hawing Saturday afternoon, and the smiles of the sponsoring Young Adults For Action were as infectious as Old Weird Harold's.

But when only some 700 showed up for the YAFA Soul Festival Saturday night, those smiles disappeared.

The frustrating thing was that Cosby didn't charge YAFA anything and his performance turned a good profit; no so the performers at the festival, and that nearly canceled out the afternoon's gains.

Moral? Men who try to help forgotten convicts learn that comedy and tragedy are brothers.

Seaside city councilmen spent nearly two hours arguing about the Pit last Thursday, and wound up telling their legal counsel, City Atty. Saul Weingarten, to get them out of a property trade without a lawsuit.

Seems the owner of the Pit, Dominic Mineo, and his real estate agent, Nick Marotta, went ahead with escrow proceedings after the April vote on Proposition M was canvassed last month (the measure dealt with the trade of the Pit for the old city hall). All councilmen but Mayor Lou Haddad thought that was not kosher. They said the measure was discretionary because of the "may" in it, and that they certainly hadn't given approval. The proposition passed by some 90 votes.

Mrs. Pearl Carey and Steve Ross were so upset they wanted to refuse to sign the papers and let the Pit's owners sue if they wanted to, but Jerry McGrath and Oliver Murray talked them into a compromise that would allow Weingarten to attempt to void the sale without harm to either party.

Chances are the compromise move only delayed an eventual showdown on the Carey-Ross position.

Councilman Oliver Murray is the new mayor pro tem of Seaside, but he probably won't get too many chances to act that way.

He was elected by his colleagues last week over the strenuous objections of Mayor Lou Haddad, who said Murray would be too busy campaigning for the assembly to take Haddad's place when he was needed.

The election of Murray was the final slap at Haddad's proposed committee appointments for councilmen, none of whch was approved in an executive session. For the most part, it was just a shuffling from one committee to another, but councilmen rejected flatly Haddad's suggestion to name architect Paul Davis to the board of architectural review. Instead McGrath was named to the job. A week earlier Haddad had tried to argue that Davis should be appointed because he is an architect even though he lives outside the city while having his office here. But McGrath had objected to considering the appointment and the others because they hadn't been listed on the agenda (it requires unanimous approval to place an item on the agenda during a meeting).

Haddad, himself, used the same rule Thursday night when he refused to allow consideration of an amendment to the sign ordinance to allow certain types of political signs and 'For Sale' signs in private autos.

To Seaside mothers, "Girl Scouts" means Mrs. Pete (Caroline) Cruz. For the last three years she has been chairman of the Oakside Neighborhood of the scouting organization on the Peninsula. Last Thursday night 12 fellow Girl Scout leaders tricked Mrs. Cruz into going to the Seaside City Council meeting to explain various phases of scout work to the city council. Instead after an introduction that listed her other achievements as an Ord Terrace and King Junior High PTA leader, as a veteran election inspector, as a Community Chest volunteer, as a Well Baby Clinic woker, and as a St. Francis Xavier Church member, Mayor Lou Haddad named Mrs. Cruz Citizen of the Month for June.

Palmistry and movies are on the planning commission agenda Wednesday night (tonight) at 8 p.m. at city hall.

William Davis Jr. seeks a use permit for used car sales at 2049 Del Monte.

City engineer

MIKE ZAMBORY looks over a map for the undergrounding of utility lines in the Hannon Redevelopment Project, the first major project of his tenure as Seaside's new public works director-city engineer. Zambory, 43, assumed his duties June 1, coming from Oroville where he had held the same post for the last 7 years. A 1954 civil engineering graduate of New York University, Zambory has some 20 years of California municipal and highway engineering experience at Pomona, Gridley and Ojai and the state Division of Highways. He served in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Zambory's wife, Jane, is a high school art and English teacher. A daughter, Caroline, is a freshman at Chico State College, and Michele is a freshman in high school. The family plans to move to Seaside when school recesses for the summer.

Seaside mostly follows statewide vote, but Brown edges Tunney

Seaside voters agreed with statewide returns for the most part in last Tuesday's primaries, but reversed their choice in the Democratic race for the U.S. Senate.

Congressman George Brown led his colleague, John Tunney, 833 votes to 814 in Seaside's 15 precincts, but lost the nomination to Tunney.

Brown carried the six precincts generally between Fremont on the west, LaSalle on the north, Fort Ord on the east and Kimball on the south (The precincts are 2, 3, 6, 7, 8 & 14 -- No. 9 is within those boundaries, but that went to Tunney.)

The only other disagreement showed Sal Nicita edging Ernest Maggini 1166 - 1163 for county clerk in Seaside precincts. Maggini won election.

State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty polled 1290 votes in Seaside, to 977 for Wilson Riles. Riles carried the same precincts as Brown.

Agreeing with county results, Seaside voters favored Ray Charles over ed Coffin for county supt. of education, 2020-781, and Bill Curtis over Bert Young for district attorney, 1769-1073.

City Councilman Oliver Murray polled 1662 Seaside Democratic votes for Assembly while his November opponent, Republican Bob Woods received 724. Democratic Congressional nominee O'Brien Riordan polled 1619 to Burt Talcott's 717.

Both major parties turned out better than half their registered voters in Seaside -- Democratics 2214 for 55 per cent and Republicans 770 for 56 per cent. A total of 3125 persons voted out of 5760 registered for a percentage of 54.2.

In the only local issue, the $800,000 sewer bond issue garnered 1791 Yes votes to 613 No's in Seaside. Adding in Del Rey Oaks and San City the total was 2250-715.

Summer reading club opens

The Emerson Branch Library's summer reading club, "Caligornia Stepping Stones," begins this week. To sign up, a child must have read one book at his grade level since the close of school.

Club members may read at their own speed as there is no competition involved, but books read for credit must be at the reader's grade level, and the child will be asked a few questions about what he has read.

There is no age limit for club members.

When a child joins the reading club, he is given a bllolet in which to srite the authors and titles of the books he reads during the summer. For each two books read, he will receive a picture of some California historical event to paste in his booklet.

A party will be held for club members after the end of the program on August 14.

The Emerson Branch library is at 1500 Imperial Street on the lower floor of the Monterey Bay Grange Building. It is open from 12 to 5 and 6 to 9 on Mondays and Wednesdays, and from 8:30 to 11 and 12 to 5 on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

There are now available for borrowing at the Emerson Branch Library 8mm and Super 8 movie films and art prints for hanging in the home. The films may be borrowed for a period of three days and a projector may be borrowed to show them, but the projector may need to be arranged for ahead of time as it is used by other branch libraries. The art prints may be kept for a month and may be borrowed for additional time if not on request for another borrower.

BOB WOOD REPORTS

A Weekly Column By The 34th District Assemblyman

Many of you may have read in your local paper or heard on the radio, where Patrick McGee (R), 52 years of age, an Assemblyman from Los Angeles county, passed away (cancer) in the UC hospital in San Francisco. If you will recall it is just a little over a year ago that Assemblyman Pattee (R), Monterey, was killed in an automobile accident. Dame Fortune has played a peculiar role in California politics since that time. I understand the Republican Party only had something like 18 members of the 80 man Assembly in the year 1960 or there about. Through the following ten year period they built that figure up to where starting the year 1969 they actually had a majority of 41 members.

When the Legislature begins in January, the first two months are usually used in introducing bills and the voting does not really become serious until March or April. Assemblyman Pattee was killed about this time and the Republicans lost their majority. Although I happened to be the one to replace Assemblyman Pattee those last few weeks of the '69 session, another sequence of events found Assemblyman Mulford (R) of Alameda, absent from the legislative battles due to a cateract eye operation, and thus again the Republican Party did not really have the 41 votes necessary for passage of a bi-partisan bill. There were a few instances during the remainder of the '69 session when this was brought about however, one of these being the passage of the budget in which Assemblyman Mulford was brought up from an Oakland hospital just to cast a vote, but then had to return to the hospital. Everyone thought the 1970 session would surely show the Republican majority of 41 votes and during the first few months 41 Republican members were present. However, Assemblyman McGee was taken to the hospital in late March just about the time the voting began and at that time we thought he might be able to return, but soon he found the days extending inot weeks and the weeks into months, and Friday, we learned that Patrick McGee would never again take his seat in the California Legislature. Fortune had again dealt the Republican Party a hard blow, for again they do not have the 41 votes necessary in a bi-partisan bill and it is doubtful, although it is possible, a special election could bring about the election of another candidate before the close of the present session. The present count of 40 Republicans and 39 Democrats simply means that neither party actually has enough votes to put over a bi-partisan bill. Any man that introduces a bill must make sure that it has the support of at least some members of the opposing party. Between now and 1971 there will be a whole complete general election and no one knows what the new line ups will bring one way or the other. But past events have shown how death and injury and disease have played a big part in the role of California politics. History has shown us that these same factors have also played a large role in national politics and the destiny of our country.

Enuf for now...

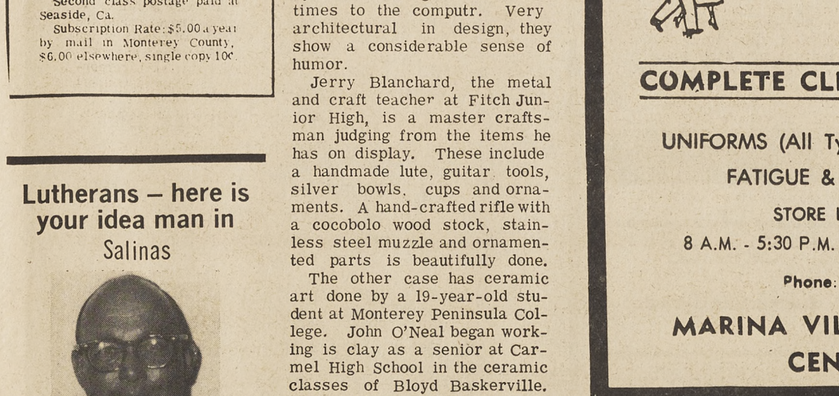
Army Staff Sgt. Cleveland N. Little, whose wife, Arlene, lives in Seaside, recently was assigned as a mess steward with the 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile) in Vietnam.

Spec. Five William J. Cornett, whose wife, Carolyn, lives in Seaside, recently received his second award of the Army Commendation Medal at Ft. Ord, for meritorious service with the U.S. Army.



Special

Art display

During the month of June the Seaside Art Commission is presenting a one-man show by "Rusty" Churchill and a craft display by two local men at the Seaside City Hall gallery, which is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

Mrs. Churchill is showing her most recent acrylic paintings. Some of these reflect her interest in the theme of Time and Space expressed through symbols dating from ancient times to the computr. Very architectural in design, they show a considerable sense of humor.

Jerry Blanchard, the metal and craft teacher at Fitch Junior High, is a master craftsman judging from the items he has on display. These include a handmade lute, guitar tools, silver bowls, cups and ornaments. A hand-crafted rifle with a cocobolo wood stock, stainless steel muzzle and ornamented parts is beautifully done.

The other case has ceramic art done by a 19-year-old student at Monterey Peninsula College. John O'Neal began working is clay as a senior at Carmel High School in the ceramic classes of Bloyd Baskerville. He is continuing his studies with Joe Hysong at MPC and has a small pottery at home. John is showing 29 pieces of his glazed pottery.

More Helpful Tips from PG&E:
"Clip and Save"

Every girl should know how to re-fuse.

If you should find yourself power-less, and your neighbors are too, it's probably a local power equipment failure. Call us and we'll restore service. If the power is off in your house only, it's probably a blown fuse or an open circuit breaker. You may have too many appliances on one circuit or outlet. Unplug a few.

Or it could be a short-circuit, so check for damaged cords and loose plugs.

If your lights are still off, check your main switch. If it is the fuse type, the switch should be turned "off" before you replace a fuse. Replace any fuse that has a smoked-up window or melted metal strip. (Make sure new fuse is the same amperage as the old one—no more, no less.) If you have circuit breakers, follow the instructions on the panel. Many homes have both fuses and circuit breakers.

If your electricity is off for any period, don't open your refrigerator or freezer, so frozen foods will stay frozen longer. If the food starts to thaw, add dry ice. Still in the dark? Call us.

P.S. The average daily cost of gas and electricity to run a typical household year 'round is less than a couple of packs of cigarettes.
